September 2023

Presidents Message

Happy September everyone!

It's September already! Where did the summer go? There is always "stuff" that needs doing during the lazy days of summer (how did that ever become a saying...who can be lazy with so much lawn to mow?) I hope you have all spent some time standing at your lathe with the joy of turning (now that is a saying I can relate to!) If you have been too busy with life, maybe it's time to take a break from, well, everything. We all know the days are getting shorter as Fall is creeping in and before you know it Winter will be knocking at the door and the shop may not be as pleasant temperature-wise (at least for those of us who have their shop in their unheated garage). If you are like me, there is always other things vying for your time that keep you away from the lathe. I'm suggesting that you put YOU first this month. Make the commitment, (yes, it will take an effort on your part but it's worth it), to get to your lathe for some Zen time. I know it always clears my head and refreshes my attitude. Just call it lathe therapy and go do it! (cont.)

OK, if you are on the fence about making the commitment, let me make this easier. What is holding you back? Oh, you don't know where to start? OK, how about with the basics, beads and coves. Limited time? No problem, you just need a simple project. No idea what to make? Ah Ha! I've got you covered! You can start with a simple project that consists of three individual pieces that can be turned in one session or you can stretch it out to three (or more?) sessions. But wait, for an added bonus, you can add some creative art therapy to the woodturning therapy! How you ask, maybe add another session (or two) by practicing your embellishing and finishing all on the same project. Here's a link that will give you more details: Simple therapy project Are you ready to make the commitment?

If you need more encouragement, why not turn a basic bowl. Yes, I know many of you already have a stack of bowls collecting dust at your house but it's therapy right? Hey, here's an idea, why not consider rotating your inventory?

WCWT and CWT are hosting two Empty Bowls events this year. Your therapy can turn into food for someone in need. We will be collecting your donations at the September meeting for the October 7th sale at the Boardwalk Shops in Batavia. (Please consider volunteering to help set up, tear down and man the booth for this sale I'll have a sign-up sheet at the meeting or just call me.)

It's your turn, make the commitment. Make yourself, your community and your club better.

Just go turn something! See you at the meeting on September 20th!

Marie

August Garage Sale Recap

We had beautiful weather for a garage sale (in the parking lot) at our August Mtg. A good time was had by all and a few good bargains were procured from several willing sellers. The club made a few bucks to boot!

Thanks to all who attended and participated as buyers and/or sellers so others might benefit.

CLUB NOTES – Empty Bowls

Marie Anderson -

SUMMARY: Open Shop/Empty Bowls workday at the Chicago School of Woodworking, August 27th.

The Chicago Woodturners host an open shop/empty bowls work day the last Sunday of the month. This month there were 6 turners making shavings and 2 observers socializing and supporting the club efforts. It was a good time and there were 19 bowls picked up this month for our empty bowls efforts. Typically, the day runs from 9am to 3pm. It's free, and all are welcome. Come for an hour or the whole day. If you would like to join the fun and turn a bowl or two for empty bowls (or just get some free mentoring advice) please let me know. The August Open shop participants included Derek Cadmus, Todd Cohen, Andy Kuby, Clint Stevens, Xi and Marie Anderson who were turning and Rich Piper and Al Miotke who stopped in for mentoring and dropping off completed bowls.

Thanks to everyone who donated bowls this month including: Harris Barbier, Andy Kuby, Clint Stevens, Al Miotke, Unsigned/unknown, and Marie Anderson. We also had a quick mentoring session on using a hook tool (and various other hollowing tools) after one of our members mentioned it was a tool he was interested in purchasing. This is one advantage of participating in this open shop. If you have a question about a specific tool or technique, let us know ahead of time and we will attempt to get you an answer and/or possibly a short demonstration to help you get an answer to your question. # CLUB NOTES

The next open shop is September 24th, 9-3 at the Chicago School of Woodworking, 5680 N Northwest Hwy, Chicago (just about 3 miles east of O'Hare airport, exit 90 at Nagle, north to Northwest highway, east ½ block to the school).

By the way, did you know that CSW offers classes in all types of woodworking (including woodturning of course)?

Check out their website at <https://chicagowoodworking.com/>. You might see some familiar names on the teachers list! Hope you can join us this month.

Women In Turning (WIT) News

From: Marie Anderson

There is a new WIT newsletter out with lots of news about women in turning around the country. This is a newsletter edited by artist and WIT committee member Andi Wolfe. If you have not seen it yet, you can view the current newsletter (and past editions as well) on the AAW website on the WIT page here: WIT Newsletters. Andi is collecting articles for the Fall newsletter celebrating women veterans in our club - any branch of service, any country, any amount of service-all are important. Send your information about your service to Marie before October 15th. We'd also love to know if you got interested in woodturning before, during, or after your service-how does/did your service influence your woodturning voyage?

I have also been talking with other WIT Liaisons around the country about their club activities. I am interested to know if any of the women in our club would like to get together for a mentoring session that includes socialization, woodturning, maybe some embellishing and lots of laughs.

I will be reaching out over the next couple of weeks (or you can stop me at the September club meeting). I think this could be fun and it would be nice to get to know each of you a little better.

Finally, since we are rapidly coming to the end of summer (some would say it's already over, but I'm the eternal optimist so...), please take advantage of the perfect turning weather, stand at your lathes and turn a wig stand. I have been in contact with Living Well, a wonderful division of Northwestern Medicine that offers free wigs (and lots of other support) to cancer patients in the northwest suburbs. They are excited to be the recipients of all the wig stands that we can produce. I would like to have at least 25 completed stands to deliver by the end of September if possible. I think we can do it! Please consider turning and donating at least one wig stand this month. The instructions can be found here: Wig Stand Article and Instructions
